

THE INNER AND OUTER OF EVOLUTIONARY LEADERSHIP II

Engaging Shadow

3 Session Series

With Kinde Nebeker & Tenneson Woolf

LEADERSHIP TODAY requires an integrated ability in both the inner and the outer: the inner of personal presence and grounding, and the outer of collaborative process and collective intelligence.

The Inner and Outer of Evolutionary Leadership Series (IOEL) is about deliberately expanding perspective, growing leadership skills, cultivating community, and growing courage for personal and collective action from an evolutionary framework.

Engaging Shadow builds on our Spring 2016 IOEL series (though attendance then is not a prerequisite). Treat yourself to this December series, a gift of depth in the holiday season, focused on working with projections and unconscious things that can create difficulty in ourselves and among teams. Ignored, shadow most surely distracts. Addressed shadow creates powerful capability for success.
