

The Circle Way Advanced Practicum

December 6 -10, 2018

Aldermarsh, Whidbey Island, Washington, USA

With Amanda Fenton, Tenneson Woolf

Honing Circle Practice

The Circle Way Advanced Practicum is for people honing their circle practice. That means active and paced learning. It means learning communally. It means connecting important stories into strengthened use of circle in a world with much need. There will be teaching, shared learning, and grounding in the advanced practice of circle.

Expand Learning

The Circle Way Advanced Practicum is a residential retreat that expands on the teachings and practices found in the book The Circle Way: A Leader In Every Chair (Christina Baldwin and Ann Linnea), and explores further the nuances of circle as a way of being and as a discipline of engagement. The Advanced Practicum is designed to apply to all layers of system — self, team, organization, and community.

For Practitioners

- Already steeped in circle practice (The Circle Way or other circle traditions), experienced enough to share stories of transformation and shakiness;
- In big projects or initiatives and want help to operationalize circle in both organizations and communities;
- Carrying complex and current questions best encountered together and to be faced with courage;
- Learning to stand grounded while many around us react.

Intimacy & Integration

The Circle Way Advanced Practicum is deliberately designed for intimacy and integration. We will cap participants at 14 to encourage depth of teaching, engagement, and harvest.
